

DALLAS SUES FOR TAXES ON POLES

NOW HAS FIGHT ON WITH LIGHT AND TELEPHONE COMPANIES.

FOLLOWS ORDER OF MAYOR

City to Demand 4 Per Cent Gross Receipts Tax From Street Car Company.

Dallas, Sept. 3.—City Attorney Chas. O'Donnell this afternoon filed suit against the Dallas Electric and Power company in the Fourteenth district court asking, on behalf of the city, the payment of the new pole and wire tax assessment against that corporation, which for the first year amounts to $19,752.

The suit is a kindred one to that filed some weeks ago against the Southwestern Telegraph and Telephone company, asking payment of pole and wire tax assessments amounting to $25,733 annually. Similar suits against other companies which are affected by the new ordinance will be filed within the next few days, according to City Attorney O'Donnell.

The suit of the city of Dallas against the Southwestern Telegraph and Telephone company has already been set early on the October docket of Judge Kenneth Forre's court. It will be tried some few days before the Dallas Electric Light and Power company suit comes up and this decision will have a marked effect upon the handling of the latter case. It is possible that should the decision be rendered adversely to the telephone company that the lighting corporation may seek peace and pay the pole and wire assessment at once. Should the city lose its case against the telephone corporation a bitter fight will doubtless ensue in the second instance.

The cases of the city against the Southwestern Telegraph and Telephone company and the Dallas Electric Light and Power company differ in some particulars. The city thinks that the telephone company has some sort of a franchise which has not yet been unearthed. The purpose of the suit against this corporation is to force them to either pay the pole and wire tax or else petition the city for a definite franchise. If they ask for such a franchise they will be forced to pay the 4 per cent gross receipts tax which they at present ignore entirely.

In the matter of the suit against the Dallas Electric Light and Power company the city claims to have an easier case. City Attorney O'Donnell states in the draft of his petition that the corporation involved is operating under a franchise granted in 1902 and that it can be clearly regulated under the present city charter.

Section 117 of the city charter is quoted in the petition to the effect that all public service corporations operating in Dallas shall pay reasonable and just compensation for privileges granted. The light and power company suit will be as to whether the pole and wire tax is regarded reasonable and just.

According to statistics set forth in the petition the Dallas Electric Light and Power company has installed in Dallas up to March 15, 1913, the number of 5,491 poles, the annual tax upon which, according to city ordinance, would amount to $19,752. This amount is declared due from the date mentioned and is demanded under the new law. Should the Dallas Electric Light and Power company lose the suit it will have to pay the costs.

City Attorney O'Donnell says that the suit against the Dallas Electric Light and Power company does not affect its kindred corporations, the street car companies. He says that the pole and wire tax ordinance excludes the taxation of trolley poles.

"We are going to get the street car companies in another way. They will have to pay their 4 per cent gross receipts tax," he declares.

This suit and others which precede or will follow is the direct result of the announcement of Mayor Holland in connection with the petition of his administration issued early this year.

Golf Ball Explodes.

Washington, Sept. 3.—An explosive golf ball may cost the sight of Stanford Hawken, the 12-year-old son of Assistant United States Attorney General. The boy today is in the hospital where the physicians declare the sight of his right eye is destroyed. They hope to save the other. The core of the ball exploded while the lad was engaged in seeking to discover the ball's composition.

Lola Norris Admits False Testimony in Caminetti Case

San Francisco, Sept. 3.—Lola Norris admitted today in the trial of F. Drew Caminetti for alleged violation of the Mann white slave act, that she had given false testimony about her relations with Caminetti. Recalled to the stand to explain her first efforts to shield Caminetti and Maury I. Diggs, immediately after their arrest at Reno, she admitted frankly that she had not told the truth and to that extent her credibility as a witness and the value of her story to the government was shaken, but her explanation was that she had lied to save the man she loved and whom she then trusted.

Mrs. Caminetti followed her testimony throwing interesting side lights on the case, but in the main a repetition of what she previously had told for the benefit of Diggs at his trial. She was an eager witness for her husband.

Tomorrow Caminetti will begin his personal defense with an account of "how he happened" to leave his wife in Sacramento with a baby three weeks old when he fled with Lola Norris.

WILSON APPROVES INCREASED RATES

AGREES TO COMPROMISE ON INCOME TAX RAISE PROPOSED BY INSURGENTS.

MAKES RATE 7 PER CENT

All Over $500,000 With Normal Tax of 1 Per Cent—Denatured Alcohol Free.

Washington, Sept. 3.—President Wilson today indicated his approval of the senate finance committee's compromise touching the higher income tax rates proposed by the insurgent democrats. The finance committee proposes to increase the tax rate on large incomes with a maximum of 6 per cent on incomes over $500,000. That, with the normal tax of 1 per cent, would make the maximum tax on large incomes 7 per cent.

The senate democratic caucus reached no conclusion tonight on any features of the tariff bill except as to the free admission of denatured alcohol. An amendment by Senator Bryan to free list this product was adopted.

The debate over the income tax will be continued probably Friday night. Led by Senators Reed, Vandaman and others, the so-called insurgent element among the democrats made a strong plea tonight for the increase of the tax on large incomes. They evinced a willingness, however, to compromise on a moderate increase that would be acceptable to the entire democratic side and might be expected to draw progressive republican support.

CORPUS CHRISTI CITY COUNCIL PLANS NOVEL WATER WORKS.

Want Distilling System Installed—The Method Is in Use on Ocean Vessels.

Corpus Christi, Sept. 3.—The city council of Corpus Christi today authorized Alexander Potter, engineer and water expert of New York City, to prepare a report looking to the solution of the city water supply by the method of distilling the water from Corpus Christi bay.

The plan is novel and unique and has never before been attempted by any city in the United States, although ocean liners have for many years used the plan.

WASHINGTON WEATHER REVIEW

Conditions East of Mississippi Continue Favorable—Drought in Western Cotton Belt.

Washington, Sept. 3.—A review of the weather in the cotton belt for the week ending Monday, was issued today as follows:

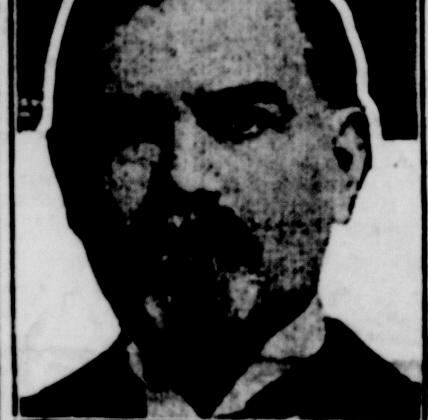

East of the Mississippi river the favorable conditions of the past several weeks continued, but high temperatures and generally deficient rainfall have reduced the soil moisture below that necessary for the best crop development, and more rain is now needed in many portions.

"West of the Mississippi high dry temperatures continue and there was nearly a universal absence of any beneficial rainfall, save at a few points in Texas. The drought and heat continues especially severe in Oklahoma, Southern Missouri and large portions of Texas, and the lack of rainfall is now being severely felt in Arkansas and probably in Northern Louisiana."

Too Much to Promoters.

Chicago, Sept. 3.—Discovery that two women promoters were receiving one-fourth of the proceeds of an autumn flower carnival for charity planned for Friday by the Order of Eastern Star, aroused such forceful protests by Masons today that the event was indefinitely postponed. The Masons also objected to their wives and daughters selling flowers on the street, fearing they would be insulted by some pedestrians as has been the case in previous sales of this nature.

Senators Who Oppose Administration Currency Bill Before Congress

SENATOR OWEN.
SENATOR HITCHCOCK.
SENATOR O'GORMAN.

Strong men on the Democratic side of the senate have made up their minds that the currency bill as now framed will not do. Among them are Senator Owen of Oklahoma, with Representative Glass of Virginia, an author of the bill, Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, and Senator O'Gorman of New York. Yet the president has come forth in endorsement of the measure.

The fight will probably not become interesting while the Mexican situation holds the spotlight. But since the president has said he wishes congress to act on the measure before adjournment, it is considered in Washington a fight will be had with the three senators among the Democratic senators among the leaders against a Democratic president.

The Weather

DOGGONE THEM SOCIETY EDITORS! THEY GOT MY NAME SPELLED WITH A 'F' AGAIN!

The weather is very unsettled, with a possibility of local showers. The temperature will remain about the same for the next twenty-four hours as it has been.

According to Dr. I. Block, voluntary weather observer, there are two decided storm centers, one over the north-west and the other over the east gulf states. This places Waco between the two, causing unsettled conditions to prevail.

Local Temperatures.

Local temperatures for the twenty-four hours ending yesterday at 7 P. M., as reported by Dr. I. Block, are as follows: Maximum 92, minimum 72.5, barometer 30.06, humidity 80. The total wind passage for the time was 104 miles, or an average of 4.3 miles per hour. The greatest wind velocity was 12 miles per hour between 3 and 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Government Forecast.

Washington, Sept. 3.—East Texas—Probably fair Thursday and Friday; light variable winds.

West Texas—Generally fair Thursday and Friday.

ATTACK CURRENCY FROM TWO SIDES

BANKERS BEFORE SENATE COMMITTEE AND REPUBLICANS OF HOUSE.

TO REPORT TO HOUSE TODAY

Motion for New Hearing Voted Down in House Committee—Result in Early Completion.

Washington, Sept. 3.—The administration currency bill was under fire at both ends of the capitol today. While representatives of the American Bankers' association continued their criticism of the bill before the senate currency committee, republican members of the house committee made an ineffectual effort to have new hearings opened there.

The administration forces on the house committee defeated the plan for new hearings by a vote of 10 to 8. All of the republicans supported a resolution offered by Representative Burke of Pennsylvania (republican), which asked that the secretary of the treasury, the comptroller of the currency and representatives of the American Bankers' association be heard. The Burke resolution was defeated and the committee adopted one by Representative Wingo of Arkansas (democrat) declaring the views of the American Bankers' association were fully known and that the amendments proposed by the recent bankers' conference at Chicago had been repeatedly suggested to the proponents of the bill and every one of them seriously discussed and carefully considered by those responsible to the country for this legislation.

Report to House Monday.

This action will result in concluding consideration of the bill by the house committee late tomorrow and reporting it to the house Monday. Democratic leaders then will urge immediate consideration of the bill. In the committee meeting today Representative Hargis of South Carolina was the only democrat who favored the opening of new hearings.

The senate hearings will continue

WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS PLACES THAW IN HANDS OF IMMIGRATION AUTHORITIES. TO BE DEPORTED

Slayer of White Enjoys But Three Minutes of Freedom. Taken in Charge in Court Room. May Thrust Him Into Vermont

Montreal, Quebec, Sept. 3.—Harry K. Thaw, tried from the Sherbrooke jail on a writ of habeas corpus obtained by a coup of Wm. Travers Jerome, enjoyed three minutes of liberty this afternoon and was then seized by the Dominion immigration authorities and hustled by automobile to this little town, where tonight he paced the floor in the immigration detention room. Tomorrow morning a special board of inquiry will sit on his case and by night he may be thrust across the Vermont border as an undesirable alien. It was generally predicted tonight that before many hours Thaw would be back in the Mattawan asylum from which he escaped Sunday, August 17.

The beginning of the end of Thaw's refuge in Canada came with dramatic swiftness. A writ of habeas corpus sued out last Saturday at the direction of Jerome, with John Boudreau, chief of police of this village, as petitioner, was sustained at 2:45 o'clock this afternoon by Superior Judge Matthew Hutchinson, sitting in chambers at Sherbrooke. Stolid, placid, numb, Thaw sat not five feet from the judge as he read the decision. When, in the very last paragraph the court declared him a free man, Thaw seemed to crumple up on the lounge where he sat. A cigar stump fell from his left hand, from his right hand fluttered two gay bits of ribbon a child had given him.

But he did not rise. W. K. McKeown, of his counsel, leaned over and patting him on the shoulder, whispered, "Thaw raised his big, staring eyes and stood up. Immigration officers moved near him and then Thaw began slowly to move to the door. At the threshold Assistant Superintendent Robertson of the immigration bureau said simply, "Come with us, Mr. Thaw."

And without a word, except for a hoarse goodbye to the reporters, Thaw obeyed. Five minutes later a gray roadster streaked away from the court house. In the back seat was Thaw. He had not even been given time to pack his scanty belongings and voluminous correspondence in his cell. In an hour he was here in Coatlook, guarded in the detention room by two stalwart Dominion police. None but counsel was allowed to see him. The 23-mile trip here was over without a special incident. Thaw expressed no surprise, evidenced no grief. Behind him trailed his defeated lawyers.

W. L. Shortell, the first of the Thaw lawyers to arrive, issued this statement: "If they have doctors all ready to pronounce Thaw insane, as I am informed they have, there is almost no hope of preventing his immediate deportation. I believe if we could get the case into the courts, we could prove this immigration act unconstitutional."

WATERSPOUT SWAMPS BOAT.
Officers and Seamen of U. S. Navy Barely Escape.

Newport News, Va., Sept. 3.—Three petty officers and five seamen from the battleship Nebraska narrowly escaped drowning in Hampton Roads today when a waterspout swamped a launch in which they were heading for shore at Old Point. The boat went down near the battleship and the men managed to keep afloat until assistance came.

The storm swamped many small boats and threatened shipping generally. The Old Dominion line steamer Mohawk, bound from Moback bay for Norfolk, was reported lost with all on board, but she reached her pier at Norfolk safely tonight.

SCORES ITALIAN HUSBANDS.

The Marchesa San Germano, formerly Miss Virginia Hoge, a strikingly handsome belle of Louisville, Ky., has her own ideas about husbands, especially those of Italian lineage. The Marchesa arrived from Italy a few days ago, where she started proceedings for a separation from her husband, an "American man," said the Marchesa, "of course, have some vices, but those of foreigners are worse—much worse. I think there are few men who are as faithless to their wives as the Italians." When Miss Hoge became the bride of the Italian nobleman, about three years ago, it was heralded far and wide that the affair was a love match. The Marchesa San Germano was known to be very wealthy, while the family to which Miss Hoge belonged, it was said, was not particularly so.

ALUMINUM TRUST IS UNMOLESTED

SENATE DECIDES NOT TO REGULATE MONOPOLIES IN TARIFF BILL.

WILL BE TAKEN UP LATER

Simmons Declares Winter Will Find Congress Still in Session—Many Paragraphs Passed.

Washington, Sept. 3.—One of the rocks which threatened the peaceful passage of the Underwood-Simmons tariff bill dissolved into thin air late today when the senate majority swung solidly into line behind its leaders to defeat an amendment designed to regulate trusts.

By a vote of 55 to 12 the senate rejected a proposal by Senator Kenyon to put aluminum upon the free list. Senator Kenyon and those who joined him in supporting the amendment, declared that the manufacture of aluminum in the United States was in the control of a monopoly—the aluminum company of America. The vote was accepted as a prelude to action upon another amendment proposing to free list the manufactures of all combinations declared by the courts to be monopolies.

Chairman Simmons, of the finance committee, announced during the debate that it was not the purpose of the majority to legislate on the trust question at the present time. He agreed that the Baltimore platform declared against trust made products, but said this was not the time for trust legislation. He said that congress had spent the summer on tariff and the fall on currency and promised that when those matters were disposed of trust legislation would be taken up. He prophesied that winter would find the legislators still in session.

Senator Simmons spoke after a visit to the white house and it was said that "insurgents" democrats had been told that the president did not think it was the time for good democrats to go to the aid of the progressive republicans.

Want Trust Regulation.

Senators Reed and Walsh announced themselves in accord with a policy of trust regulation, but argued that many difficulties lay in the way of attempting such restrictions in a tariff measure. Senator Oliver defended the aluminum company of America, and said it was "insane" to attempt to reduce the duty on aluminum to the proposed rates when it meant a loss in revenue of more than $600,000 annually.

The regular republicans voted with the democrats against the amendment. Those who supported it were: Brady, Bristow, Catron, Clapp, Crawford, Jones, La Follette, Norris, Poindexter, Sterling and Works.

The senate today passed many paragraphs previously laid aside. The paragraph forbidding the importation of bird plumage except for scientific or educational purposes—desired by the Audubon Society—which was debated fiercely in caucus last night, passed tonight without question.

Senators Lodge and Root argued against the proposed 25 per cent duty on works of art in the bill and Senator Thomas spoke in favor of it. The republicans were beaten on the vote.

Senator La Follette introduced his amendment to the cotton schedule. It proposes changes in practically every paragraph to make many rates higher and others lower than those proposed in the present bill.

SUSPENDS MASON'S SENTENCE

American Who Pleaded Unwritten Law, Practically Acquitted in Korea.

Seoul, Korea, Sept. 3.—Suspension of the sentence of eighteen months penal servitude pronounced on James Mason, former manager of the gold mines at Un-San for manslaughter, was ordered today on the prisoner's appeal.

Mason pleaded the unwritten law in defending himself against the charge of killing a Chinese mine employee who had committed a criminal assault on his 12-year-old daughter. Suspension of the sentence is regarded here as equivalent to an acquittal.

ASTOR BLOCKS FOR TOMBSTONES

Granite in Famous Cemetery to Be Sold to Cemeteries.

New York, Sept. 3.—The granite blocks from the Astor House, which was built in 1836, making what was the largest and finest hotel in the world at that time, will be made into tombstones. The public service commission, which is taking up part of the Astor House property in connection with the building of new subways, has awarded a contract to the wrecking of the structure to a bidder who offered to pay the city $333 for the privilege if it could keep the material. The company proposes to turn the dinky granite blocks over to a Long Island City tombstone maker.

HUERTA IS NOT YET ELIMINATED

CAN AVOID CONSTITUTIONAL PROHIBITION BY RESIGNING AND MAKING RACE.

WOULD NOT BE RECOGNIZED

U. S. Would Follow Precedent of 1837. Mexican Paper Demand That He Run.

WILL BE CANDIDATE.

Mexico City, Sept. 3.—That General Huerta intends to quit the presidency in favor of General Gerónimo Trevino and become a candidate in the October elections is the statement made tonight by a well known Mexican close to the administration.

General Trevino is making his way to the capital and little effort has been made to disguise the fact that he has been officially summoned. Just how the contemplated succession is to be brought about has not been disclosed.

There are persistent rumors of impending changes in the cabinet and it is said that General Trevino is to be made minister of foreign relations in order legally to succeed to the presidency. He was reported to be at Tampico last night and is expected to reach Mexico City tomorrow.

TREVINO EN ROUTE.

Laredo, Sept. 3.—General Gerónimo Trevino, a prominent federal leader, has been called to Mexico City. He left Monterrey yesterday. Nothing was made known of the reason for his trip.

NEGOTIATIONS RESUMED.

Washington, Sept. 3.—Administration officials declared late tonight that both Nelson O'Shaughnessy, charge d'affaires of the American embassy at Mexico City, and John Lind, President Wilson's personal envoy at Vera Cruz, were in frequent communication with officials of the Huerta government concerning a new basis for negotiations through which it was hoped to bring about peace in Mexico.

A message from Mr. O'Shaughnessy reached President Wilson today and while its contents were not disclosed it was said to be indicative of important developments in the next few days.

The new basis for the parleys, most of which are being carried on orally, contemplates certain questions as having been definitely disposed of. The Washington government considers that it has made itself quite clear that it cannot under any circumstances recognize the Huerta government and does not expect any further demands along that line. The administration, moreover, though hoping for a positive assurance, is inclined to accept on its face value the assertions of Frederico Gamboa, Mexican minister of foreign affairs in his two notes to Mr. Lind that Huerta is ineligible for re-election as meaning his elimination from the presidential race. Washington officials think an amicable understanding on this point undoubtedly will be reached.

With these fundamentals settled it is understood that further negotiations by Messrs. O'Shaughnessy and Lind would look to the establishment of an effective armistice and the holding of a fair and free election.

Basis for Optimism.

Administration officials revealed tonight that the optimism they have felt in the last few days over the Mexican situation has been based largely upon what they have construed as an indirect assurance of Victoriano Huerta's intention not to be a candidate for the presidency of Mexico in the October election.

Much stress was laid at the white house and in other official quarters on the assertions of Frederico Gamboa, American minister of foreign affairs, in his last note to John Lind, pointing out the ineligibility of Huerta under the Mexican constitution to become a candidate to succeed himself. While the administration here does not regard Huerta as the constitutionally chosen provisional president of Mexico, and therefore, does not consider him necessarily bound by restrictions in this connection, they admittedly see in the Gamboa note a favorable answer to the chief American proposal.

Arkansas Now In Line On Building of Good Roads

Little Rock, Sept. 3.—Early reports tonight indicate that the first of the good roads days fixed by Governor Hays in a recent proclamation was generally observed over the entire state. The only counties where the day was not observed were those where the roads have become so dry because of lack of moisture that it was deemed advisable to postpone road work.

Hundreds of miles of road was improved under the direction of county road overseers.

In Little Rock Governor Hays set the citizens of the state a good example by donning overalls, shouldering a spade and toiling all day in the hot sun on a pike near Little Rock. At his side was Governor Major of Missouri, who had promised to "give the citizens of Arkansas an exhibition of plain and fancy shoveling."

At Fourche Dam near Little Rock twenty women wielded shovels all day working beside the men. One woman, more than 80 years old, shoveled all afternoon.

The work will be continued all over the state tomorrow.

SUGGEST NAVY IMPROVEMENTS

Board Recommends Pensacola, Fla., as Place for Big Station Necessary on Gulf.

Washington, Sept. 3.—Improvements and increased facilities for practically every navy yard along the Atlantic coast were recommended in reports submitted to Secretary Daniels today by a special board which has just completed an investigation of conditions at all the various plants. Special attention was given to the subject of a great naval station on the Gulf of Mexico necessary on account of the Panama canal, and Pensacola, Fla., was recommended as the best site for such an establishment.

Government facilities for constructing war craft are now entirely inadequate, the board reported. Any delay in building up the navy yards on the expectation that private plants can be depended on to meet war demands of the navy, the report said, "impairs naval efficiency and is a menace to our first line of national defense."

"The country's future naval needs," it added, "undoubtedly will demand that we possess two stations on the Atlantic coast and one on the Pacific with facilities for undertaking the work of building a battleship on short notice."

Committee Debates.
Washington, Sept. 3.—The senate committee on naval affairs after an hour's conference with Secretary Daniels and another hour's debate behind closed doors today, declined to decide whether the secretary had been justified in amending the regulations concerning examinations for commissions in the marine corps so as to eliminate the test for "aptitude and probable efficiency."

Secretary Daniels explained his recent action in rejecting four young men who had been recommended for commissions after examinations. He said he had been convinced that the tests for aptitude and efficiency operated directly against enlisted men who took the examinations for commissions. Friends of the candidates to whom commissions were refused by the secretary demanded that the young men be recognized. Members of the committee said tonight the matter probably would rest for the present without action and the candidates recommended by Secretary Daniels would remain unconfirmed for some time.

ATTACKED FROM BOTH SIDES

throughout the week, with members of the bankers' committee as chief witnesses. It is expected that the members of the committee will seek to defer all currency legislation until December. Today's session of the committee was interrupted by a banker not a member of the Chicago conference committee, who opposed many of the suggestions made by the bankers' committee. This witness, President Johnston of the National Reserve bank of Kansas City, said the central bank idea advocated by many bankers tended to "centralization of power." He favored the administration plan as a "decentralization of power."

Festus J. Wade, president of the Mercantile Trust company of St. Louis, chief representative of the bankers' conference committee, declared the national banks of the country ought not to be compelled to surrender one-tenth of their capital and one-half of their reserves to the proposed governmental system, if they were to be denied representation on the federal reserve board.

Mr. Wade charged that the administration bill was a "force bill," and would accomplish far less in bringing about a satisfactory reorganization of the banking system than would a plan that was more attractive to the banks. He said the plan would give national banks few advantages that they would not enjoy under state bank charters; and that many of them would retire to the state bank field.

The witness declared the banks did not care to own the stock of the regional reserve banks and would be willing that it should go into the hands of private subscribers; but he did not believe such a plan could be worked out without putting the government into the general banking business.

Open Doors.
"Throw the doors open to everybody who wants to own the stock," he said emphatically. "We will take it if you dare force us to and make the plan attractive enough."

The refusal of but 10 per cent of the national banks in the different sections of the country to join the proposed system, would make it impossible to secure the necessary $5,000,000 capital for regional reserve banks in the middle states, he said. He added, however, that he had figured out the large national banks as among the number that might withdraw from national bank charters.

"It is my opinion," he said, "that if the present bill were passed today, it would be absolutely inoperative tomorrow. You have discouraged, by its provisions, the men who have built national banking up to its present development. If you attempt to put this bill through, calling for the organization of twelve reserve banks, each with a minimum capital of $5,000,000 and confine the subscriptions to stock to national banks, it is my judgment that the plan will be unsuccessful."

Mr. Wade endorsed a suggestion made by Senator Weeks, republican, for the selection of a list of fifty or more men by the banks from which list the president might appoint the four members he selects to serve on the federal reserve board.

"What we want is banking experience, credit experience and financial wisdom on that board," he said.

ARE IN NEED OF PICKERS

China Springs Short of Labor—Many of the Fields Remain Untouched.

China Springs, Sept. 3.—The cotton picking season is upon China Springs in full blast and almost every one who can pull a sack is in the field from early until late. The two gins are running on full time, cutting from 50 to 80 bales per day.

The crying demand of the community is pickers. There are thousands of acres white with the fleecy staple through which a sack has never been drawn. The present indications point to fairly good yield per acre throughout this part of the country.

Miss Nell Pressnell will again attend Baylor College at Elgin; Harvey Thomas will attend Baylor University, and Miss Grace Hallmark will attend school in Waco.

These, together with a number of others who will attend school, indicate that China Springs will be well represented at the various colleges.

NEW HEALTH THOUGHT

Late Scientific Theories Help to Explain Wonderful Force of Vitality.

"Most every man and woman can overcome and free themselves from disease." Such is the new health-thought that is sweeping around the world. Physicians are giving heed to it and scientists are proclaiming its truth.

The banishment of disease is not a medicine route. One word briefly tells the whole story that one word is "vitality." Keep the body stocked with vitality and it has an ironclad armor to resist disease.

Nature alone supplies vitality. Men cannot get it from pills, powder, or dopes. The new earth fluid, Vitalitas, is one of Nature's ways of putting vital force into the human system. This fluid comes from deep in the earth and is charged with the forces and properties of Nature that energizes. When taken into the system Vitalitas singles out weakened, impotent and diseased tissues and revitalizes them. Stomach disorders gradually disappear. Derangements of liver, kidneys, bowels and blood are swept away. The train of ills that result from such disorders are relieved and cured by Vitalitas. Its benefits are constitutional and therefore permanent. It is fully guaranteed. You can see how Vitalitas is extracted and can sample it today at the demonstration at the Powers-Kelly Drug Co.

RIVERS HAVE SAME SOURCE

Amazon and Orinoco Have Their Origin Together.

New York, Sept. 3.—A discovery that the Amazon and the Orinoco rivers have their origin near the same spot is claimed by Dr. Hamilton Rice, the noted English explorer, and his companion, Lieut. P. E. Ritter von Bauer of Vienna, who have just returned from an expedition into the South American jungles. For thirty months they searched for the sources of the two great rivers and traversed country through which they believe no human being had ever been.

"The country we entered," Dr. Rice said, "was wilder than Africa at the time Livingston entered it."

"We discovered the Amazon and the Orinoco have their origin near the same spot, in fact, their small feed streams interlock and are not as most people believe widely separated. For fifty days we never saw a human being outside our own party of twelve, but we came across tigers and tapirs almost as tame as a household pet."

Lockout at Dublin.
Dublin, Sept. 3.—Thirty thousand people attended the funeral today of the workman Nolan, whose death was due to injuries received in the riots in connection with the tramway strike. There was no disorder.

At a meeting today 400 prominent employers signed an agreement binding themselves not to employ any member of the Transport Workers' union. This means practically a general lockout. The day passed quietly, but in the fear of possible developments a large force of reserve constabulary was dispatched from nearby stations to Dublin.

DEPOSITS CRITICISED

FARMERS' EDUCATIONAL ASSOCIATION SAYS PLAN WILL NOT AID CROP MOVEMENT.

Will Put More Money Into Hands of Speculators to Force Farmers.

Salina, Kans., Sept. 3.—Plans proposed by the federal government as an aid to the farmer were declared valueless so far as the planter is concerned, in reports and resolutions adopted at the opening session today of the Farmers' National Educational and Co-operative association's annual meeting. The plan of the treasury department to place money in various banks to aid in moving crops was especially criticized. The legislative committee, in its report, which was adopted, declared that "it could not see a single benefit in the crop aid plan."

The committee contended that the result of the plan would be that money would not be loaned to the farmer to enable him to make his crop gradually to meet demands of trade, but "would put more money in the hands of speculators to buy crops from farmers forced to sell because they could not get money."

The administration currency bill was scored on the ground that it would force farmers to sell at harvest time and that speculation would follow.

One resolution adopted asked congress not to allow further "appropriations for bulletin service which nobody reads," but to give "more aid for loans."

Proposals for farmers' interests. The establishment of a national marketing bureau was urged in another resolution approved by the convention.

Speakers at the convention tonight said the amount of money the treasury department is to place in the various banks over the country to aid in the moving of crops should be increased to $200,000,000 under conditions requiring the central banks to loan the money to their correspondent banks in the rural sections at 4 per cent and rural banks to charge 6 per cent. It was suggested that the loans be secured by agricultural products to be rated at 80 per cent of their actual value. Officers are to be elected tomorrow.

HUERTA IS NOT YET ELIMINATED

that Huerta shall not be a candidate in the forthcoming election.

By some diplomats, and among the constitutionalists here the view is held, however, that the constitutional prohibition against Huerta's candidacy would easily be evaded by his resignation in favor of another provisional president some time before the election.

Administration officials who realize that such a contingency is possible, believe nevertheless, Senor Gamboa was acting in good faith in his declaration that the candidacy of Huerta had not been raised as an issue in Mexico before the United States brought it into the discussion, that everybody there had taken into consideration his ineligibility for the presidency and had not launched any campaign for him.

Compelled to Be Candidate.
Outside of administration quarters, however, the significance is attached to the pronouncement in concert of various officials and semi-official newspapers in Mexico City a few days ago that Huerta would now be compelled to be a candidate, because he had successfully denied the United States the right of negotiating with him.

High officials of the administration stated most emphatically that they felt quite satisfied of Huerta's elimination from the presidential race. His subsequent election would not alter the attitude of the United States—namely, that recognition must not be extended to him. Their action would be based on the precedent of President Hayes in 1877, who refused to recognize Porfirio Diaz until it could be determined whether the government people could guarantee international obligations.

Unofficial reports continue to reach Washington that the Huerta government cannot last much longer on account of financial difficulties.

The arrival today from Mexico City of Dr. Wm. Bayard Hale, personal friend of President Wilson, who has been making a study of the political conditions in Mexico for the last three months is calculated to add materially to the president's information on this aspect of the situation. Mr. Hale said today he went to Mexico unofficially and of his own volition, but that any data he had gathered would be at the service of the United States government.

Will Talk With Wilson.
He is on an engagement to talk with President Wilson at length tomorrow. Mr. Hale denied that he carried any documents from Mr. Lind, but it is understood that from his recent conversations with Mr. Lind and his close intimacy with the negotiations here, he will be able to give the administration a more comprehensive view of affairs in Mexico than has been possible through cable messages.

Meanwhile Mr. Lind will remain in Vera Cruz pending orders from Washington. At the white house it was stated that messages have been exchanged within the last twenty-four hours with both Mr. Lind and Charge O'Shaughnessy at Mexico City which indicates an encouraging and hopeful view of the ultimate success of the negotiations.

President Wilson, immediately on his return from the summer capital at Cornish, N. H., delved into the subject again. At the white house it is confidently expected that at the end of this week there will be tangible developments.

LIND BACK IN VERA CRUZ.

Trip to Plantation Gives Him a Better Idea of Conditions.

Vera Cruz, Sept. 3.—President Wilson's representative, John Lind, and Rear Admiral Fletcher returned here tonight from the Vista Hermosa plantation, where they went yesterday on the invitation of the state government. The trip afforded no more thrills than the knowledge of a raid on a property a few miles from the plantation on the same night they spent there, in which bandits killed the man in charge, appropriating 2000 pesos, and the sight of the body of an executed rebel on

8 TO 1; FAVOR MARRIAGES.

Matrimony Runs Well Ahead of Divorce in Bell County.

Temple, Sept. 2.—Every time a divorce is granted in Bell county there are eight marriage licenses issued by the county clerk to offset the same. These facts were ascertained today by comparing the license record in the office of county clerk P. B. Madison with the divorce docket kept by District Clerk Gene Upshaw. Since November 20, 1912, a total of 528 marriage licenses have been issued and during the same period of time there have been 59 divorce suits filed. A large proportion of the latter are accorded to negroes, who easily contract both the marriage and the divorce habit.

Diamond production in German Southwest Africa is reported unusually large.

BE PRETTY! TURN GRAY HAIR DARK

Try Grandmother's Old Favorite Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe for about 50 cents. Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell if you darkened your hair, as it does so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy.

A COUNTRY WEDDING TAKES GUESTS FROM HERE

On Tuesday evening friends from here drove out for the marriage of O. A. Robinson of Marlin and Miss Mary Harris. This took place in the bride's country home, and was full of pleasing detail. Only a limited number of wedding guests were present. These scarce presented their congratulations before Mr. and Mrs. Robinson were speeding towards Colorado for their honeymoon trip. They return to take permanent residence in Marlin.

MRS. ARTHUR WIEBUSCH AT HOME FROM COVINGTON

From time to time within the last few months Mrs. Arthur Wiebusch has made visits to the bedside of her grandmother, Mrs. Mary Rogers, in Covington. She is just returned from the east, since the invalid was laid to her last rest a few days ago. Mrs. Wiebusch in returning home was accompanied by her grandfather, J. M. Rogers. Mrs. Rogers has been more than once in the South Third street household, where she met friends who now note with sincere regret that she is no more.

MR. AND MRS. T. C. RICHEY TO HAVE AN AU REVOIR

Since early spring Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Richey from California have been visiting their many relatives and old friends in and around Waco. They are now about ready to turn their faces homeward. In order that the event may be made a demonstration of affection, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Abernathy of Austin avenue are entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Richey on Friday. In the evening all the relatives will assemble as an au revoir to their departing guests. These relatives, and the close friends are included, are many, so this will be a gathering of large proportions.

BAND CONCERT TONIGHT AT SUL ROSS PARK

This evening, beginning at 8 o'clock, Alessandro will give another of his excellent band programs at Sul Ross park. The band has made the round of the ward parks, alternating with the Sunday afternoon programs at Cameron park. Thus all sorts and conditions of men, so to speak, have heard the selections. And many have heard the compliments paid the musicians individually and collectively. The band plays under many difficulties, since, in our parks, the sound of the instruments is dissipated in all directions as it floats from the band. Notably improved was the music when the band had even the crude sounding board of the brick wall at Baylor university. Again, on Labor Day, the frame wall of the Cotton Palace made an improvement which was remarked. Again, the city does not appropriate sufficiently to make a band of professional musicians. The members are all busy men who have only evening practice. Were Waco to establish a city band and require all the time of the members, the cry of taxation would be mighty. We must bear all these things in mind when we hear the Alessandro band.

When the years pass, and we have hundreds of dollars where we now have one for our park music, we will begin to demand more. We will then find Alessandro adding red sections for his musicians, and then other divisions of instruments which make the real band. We are now in our infancy.

Again, we should withhold criticism upon the Alessandro programs. Compare any one of our Waco bands to one from any other band director, and we will find them the same. The opening march, the short fantasia number, the waltz, the opera, and a descriptive number, with a patriotic close—this is a correct band program. In this way all tastes are reached, and the musicians have practice upon variety in musical composition. On Sunday one sacred melody is appropriate, and for encores always something light; and one of the popular airs. Waco is getting into line with band concerts the world over.

For tonight the program is especially pleasing. So far Sul Ross park, the silk stocking ward rendezvous, has the banner for bad behavior. Let it be hoped those who attend the concert will redeem the second ward reputation. The selections are more than appealing. The operatic number will be that always appreciated Norma. The waltz will introduce the whistling Jolly Fellows, something quite in the present popular revival of the whistling art. I believe the program will be given, and also by request Alessandro's arrangement of the Midnight, where the band plays in sections.

And will we rise, stand and suggest that the men remove hats during the rendition of our national "Star Spangled Banner?"

Society Notes.

A pleasing note comes from Georgia in this, Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Hardin, former Wacoans, are returning to reside here. The date for their arrival is near at hand.

Within this week Mrs. Griffith, who has been in the Scarborough place, Eighth and Speight, is taking residence in the north Fifth street cottage near Dutton.

The present week notes the reopening of the home of Mrs. Mitchell Nash, who summered with her parents near Marfa.

With today the Mesdames J. W. Whitworth and Shel Sparks are ending their sojourn at Kentucky Springs. Mrs. Sparks arrived at home on Friday while Mrs. Whitworth remains to visit girlhood friends and relatives in other portions of the state.

The last post card from Miss Mary Lambdin reported yet another to the pleasure in her vacation trip. She was at historic Cambridge, in New England, where she made several visits. Owing to the late date for the opening of her classes here, Miss Lambdin does not reach Waco until the middle of the present week.

Mrs. R. B. Dupree has been with her daughter, Mrs. Arch Grinnan, in Brownwood, since their return from Eureka Springs. She mentions no date for her return to Waco.

The M. A. Cooper household will be complete with Friday. At this time Mr. Cooper, with Madison Cooper, will reach home from their sojourn of several weeks around the Great Lake resorts. Madison Cooper remains a few days before returning to enter his junior year at the State university.

As a hint to brides who may be contemplating the order of wedding cards, the latest are without the stationer's name, which for so long has been on the envelope. This probably, is the outcome of a sentiment that it is more elegant for the invitation to be relieved of all advertising flavor. We like the change.

Mothers are implored to attend the band concert tonight with their children, and to see that proper respect is paid the musicians as well as those who enjoy music. The children have the park every night in the six weeks but this one. Surely they can be restrained this once.

Mrs. H. J. Spauld sends cards from beautiful Catalina Island to say that while she and Mr. Spauld with the baby girl, are enjoying everything, they have had sufficient vacation to be longing for "good old Waco." However, no one for this arrival from California is mentioned.

Mrs. William Meade of Terrace Row, with the Mesdames Katherine Meade and Grace Arbuckle, have enjoyed a number of motor runs to nearby towns during the present week.

This afternoon brings the card courtesy of Mrs. George Hunter Smith to the Mesdames Baines and Herrington. The hour for forming the game is 4 o'clock.

The Mary West chapter is reminded that the bi-weekly meetings will be resumed with Mrs. W. W. Lastinger on next Wednesday.

Mrs. W. H. Forrester, who was at the millinery openings in Chicago, reports that hats are to be unusually pretty this season, not trimmed in plenty but with elegance. She says you never know where to find the plume, for it migrates around the brim just about as much as does the bird from which it comes.

It is rather bad when the intelligent compositor begins to place his own words, for his supplying the small word "not" completely changed the meaning in one detail from the Jewish Women's Council and.

Two women went riding on Labor Day. They had a stiff rein to make the horse bow his neck gracefully. They went to the park, listened to a band concert, rode out North Fifth, one made a visit while the other waited. In all, passed a full afternoon of pleasure. And the horse? Why, he stood the torture, what else could he do? Why not one period of rest? Because these women had no time to consider the comfort of a mere animal, who was the means of their own pleasure.

It seems that the women have been doing a full share of reading during their summer lolling. Quite a number of new books are being mentioned.

Here is another Bible conundrum: When did Moses sleep five in a bed? When he slept with his forefathers.

We will all want to apply to have our names changed when we find that Rosalind means beautiful as a rose.

The improved condition in the health of Mrs. Richard Journey of North Ninth street will detain her in Colorado, where she has been for some time, until late November.

DR. C. DAWITT HUDSON. Practice limited to office and sanitarium. Will visit in consultation. Hours: 9 to 12:30 a. m., 3 to 6 p. m.

IS STRUCK BY AN AUTOMOBILE

Macon Mullins, Aged Nine, Is Slightly Injured by a Collision.

At 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon Macon Mullins, aged 9, was struck by an automobile near the corner of Fifth and Mulberry streets and knocked from a bicycle, resulting in the boy being badly bruised, though not seriously hurt. His face was lacerated, and his teeth loosened by the blow when he struck the pavement, but he is not otherwise injured.

"WACO" TO THE TRAVELER'S EYES.

We like thoroughly the suggestion under consideration by the Y. M. B. L. to attract attention to Waco by large signs, or posted bills, on railroad lines near passenger stations in other Texas cities. This has long been recognized as one of the most successful forms of modern publicity and the additions yearly to the municipal advertisements seen near railroad terminals throughout the country attest its benefits. The cost is slight, the effect striking. It is "Waco" spelled to the traveler's eyes—to many travelers in Texas for the first time, probably. It is said that signboard announcements of cities' resources, extent and advantages placed at their own railroad stations have brought many a newcomer who has investigated, become enthused, sent for his family, invested and remained. How much more effective is this game form of city, commercial publicity away from home! The main consideration is to bring the homeseeker, the prospective investor and business man, to the city. It is not undue pride that gives us the assurance he will be interested and attracted when he arrives. These large announcements of Waco and its worthwhile opportunities can be made highly attractive—so attractive, say, as to move the traveler and the "outside" business man to buy a ticket over the hundred miles or so of railroad to Waco from the city wherein this attention is drawn to Waco by the enterprise of its chief workers. This publicity feature is so generally used and testimonials to its advantages are so easily had from commercial bodies in all parts of the county, that there should be no hesitation in adding it to Waco's advertising plan. If it does not make good, it can be abandoned after a fair trial—but we are confident it will get results. If it has succeeded for other cities and has the endorsement of much larger commercial organizations, the Y. M. B. L. will not be taking an unwarranted risk by adopting it for Waco.

CAPITAL OFFENSES.

If any editor or professional man doing much business with the State House offices in the past ten years or so, has produced a tribute to the general efficiency of the average department in the "great granite structure" on Capitol Hill we have overlooked the pleasing production. As we have guarded the situation, there have been few offices that have not been somewhat hard put with the clerks, funds and quarters and fittings at their command to give passably satisfactory service to the public and realize a fair degree of content with the conditions under which they worked.

So when the governor's indigo crayon in its runnings-amuck blotches clerks' and stenographers' names from the departmental payrolls, we find it very easy to sympathize with the heads of the departments affected and easier still to tell the executive this was not a good thing to do. We have seen no surprise of clerk hire and stenographic assistance in any State House office, and we know these offices about as well as could be required for basis of an authoritative comment. Indeed, in no State institution, as well, have we seen more men and more money than would supply the barest needs and the Capitol departments are glaring examples of this condition. We have given up trying to vacuumize the governor's behavior with respect to governmental and institutional maintenance—we will not say "probe" it, for the superficial needs no probing. His is a wild, weird idea of fidelity to the taxpayer in little things, as in big, even had he not blown hot and cold so detrimentally and irritably and irritatingly, promising upbuilding in his campaign vocabulary and effecting destruction in his administration acts—switching from the beautiful principle of Goethe to the gloomy view of Voltaire overnight. And now he would have the departments operate with lesser help and co-operation than at any time since the State struck its gait to governmental growth. He would take away essential clerical attention and throw the details on the managers. Those who know conditions in State government offices cannot by the most generous, Colquitt-loyal stretch of reasoning justify this somewhat wholesale beheading of Capitol underlings. Here is further exemplification of the fulfillment of our governor's marvelous promise of a "business administration."

FLANAGAN.

Gen. Webster Flanagan, his title a brigadiership from Sam Houston, is no longer Texas's collector of internal revenue at Austin. This descendant of brave Irish, front rank man in Republican councils, conventions and caucuses of the nation for nearly a half century, is replaced after long service by Hon. Alex Walker, serving and serviceable Democrat of Travis district, by the grace of Mr. Wilson's triumph and Mr. House's and Mr. Bryan's and Mr. Burleson's—possibly—old friendship. We take it the general leaves his stately old office in the federal building, gathers his trophies of the hunt about him and his historic portraits and framed documents, and retires at the age of 81 years with better grace than do most of his vanished fellow officials of the Republican party. Indeed, we are sure the general's departure was jaunty—don't care, as it were; more sprightly than nonchalant—for Flanagan always has been jaunty, as the name should assure. And he is nothing if not a philosopher; he has never been inconsistent. He said, and the saying has lived and will live famously: "What are we here for, if not the offices?" and Roscoe Conklin told him, after the great convention, that every Republican leader was itching to make the same pronouncement for the spoils of victory, but lacked the courage.

So we think Flanagan is glad to go, even as he expected to go—although, heaven knows! Mr. Wilson has appointed some Republicans. But even those who are most glad to see this fine old Texan go, wanting his place for a Democrat, will not deny that he has served faithfully and well, as he has done most of his life's work. None in this State's officialdom has more loving friends. In politics he was keen, exacting and often a bit hard—as his famed frankness concerning the plums denotes. In friendship, in loving kindness, in personal honor, in charity and in courtesy he has left nothing to be desired. He leaves office with the hearty respect and esteem of his community, the confidence and admiration of the loyal of his party, and the good wishes of all Texas.

MERELY ANOTHER INSTANCE.

Commenting on the "beauties of the recall," on which we so often have taken occasion to comment when cheap politicians and persons crooked or with an ax to grind "got after" some public official for doing his sworn duty, to their discomfiture, the Post-Express of Rochester, N. Y., stresses especially a California instance of setting the recall machinery in motion to remove a woman superintendent of schools from the office she has held for eleven years. It relates that the county board of education of which she is ex officio secretary revoked the teacher's certificate of an high school principal charged with immoral conduct, whereupon he and his friends appear to have obtained the needed signatures to a recall petition.

"Presumably," says the Post-Express, "the woman was capable and conscientious or she would not have been kept in office so long. Probably the principal was at fault or the county board would not have deprived him of his school. In any event, revenge would seem to be the motive, since to recall her will not reinstate him, and if he had a case that would endure the light of day he could appeal for justice to the courts."

That's the true, general, average situation, as to working the recall, in a word. The statement has been made on excellent authority that the number of American cases where the recall has been invoked in conspicuously unworthy office holding may be checked off on one's fingers. Ring, gang, machine, corrupt organization men, men who cannot hold office themselves, grafters and crooks on the treasury, whose schemes and detrimental control are blocked or overturned by decent officials, like the recall plan and consider it may get results. Thus far the rule has worked but that one way. We put forward an hearty "Amen!" to the Post-Express's self-congratulation—happily we of this State are spared as yet this grotesque political device which would be more often used to club honesty out of office than to retire an unworthy incumbent. "What a campaign of defamation we should be engaged in now if the Sulzer case were to be decided by popular vote. Tammany would be a relentless unit to cast him out; partisans hostile to the organization would be fierce to keep him in; the yellow journals would scream, stumpers would shout themselves hoarse and opposition routers would brand them as infamous maligners, and not one citizen in ten thousand would vote with such personal knowledge of the evidence as made him certain that he was voting right."

If the recall proposition ever is submitted to the electorate of Texas in real earnest, informed public men and the press that is aware of the sins committed elsewhere in the name of this "reform," will know very well what to do.

OUR UNPREPARED ARMY.

Whether due to the influence of environment or to a belief that official connection with the war or the navy demands participation in the clamor for larger appropriations for his particular department of the government as part of his duty, no matter how peace-loving and unarmy a citizen may be before his appointment as secretary of war or the navy, he quickly falls into the habit of warning the nation, says the Pittsburgh Dispatch, how utterly helpless it would be in case of war unless it wakes up and contributes more generously to his special establishment. So it is not strange to read of Secretary Garrison telling a western audience that if a crisis should come to this country we would be absolutely unprepared to meet it.

Yet one-third of the government's revenues are being spent for military purposes. This is certainly not niggardly. In fact, for a nation so little likely to be involved in war as the United States, it is lavish and even extravagant. Let Mr. Garrison ask the army chiefs what they have been doing with all this money, if we are so absolutely unprepared. If the blame rests with congressional insistence upon the retention of wasteful and useless army posts, let it be exposed and corrected. If incompetency and inefficiency are responsible, let it be shown who is at fault. The country which has so generously contributed to the maintenance of the military and naval establishments certainly is not to be blamed. It would be better to show what returns there have been for the millions already spent, what measure of efficiency they have procured, than this continual clamor for more appropriations on the pleas of our absolute unpreparedness.

NOT A "SERVICE."

The fact that Ambassador Page found a house in London suitable for the American representative only after weeks of effort, taken in connection with the wide-supported movement for the purchase by this government of permanent residences for its representatives abroad, gives popular interest to an article by "Anglo-American" in the North American Review, on the diplomatic service of the United States. This writer finds that one of the distinguishing features of the American diplomatic service is that it is not a service at all. There are no examinations to pass to enter it; there is no permanency of tenure; there is no regulated system of promotions either by merit or seniority or in any other way; and there are no pensions. "All the appointments are made by the president, and the men he appoints belong as a rule to his own party. When the other side comes in, there is nothing to prevent a clean and world-wide sweep of every American representative from the most honored ambassador to the rawest third secretary."

The North American contributor thinks that we do not accord sufficient justice to our public men as a class. In England, for instance, the material rewards, the social distinction, the power that belongs to a man who reaches high office are very great, great enough to attract the best men to the public services. A cabinet minister in England enjoys an ample salary and leads a life which, if very arduous, is superlatively interesting, varied and exciting.

The keynote to proper representation abroad seems to the North American to be the provision, whether by lease or purchase, of permanent American embassies in the leading capitals of the world. If they were once acquired, a salary of, say, thirty thousand dollars a year, would enable any man in any capital to represent the United States with ease and dignity, but without any excessive display. He could fulfill all the obligations of his office as well as, but no better than, they ought to be fulfilled. He would still have to draw to some extent on his private means, but not more so than a man who was moderately well-off could easily and gladly afford; and certain standards of living and of expense would be quickly evolved that would restrain the millionaire, relieve the less affluent man from his present disadvantages, and spare future American presidents the humiliation of finding their offers of embassies continually refused because of the inability of those to whom they have been tendered to maintain out of their private purses the establishments demanded by the service.

DOGS AND TUBERCULOSIS.

A statement is attributed to the French Academy of Medicine that out of a total canine population of 200,000 in Paris, "from 12,000 to 18,000 tubercular dogs are running loose in the streets." The St. Louis Post-Dispatch says the statement is probably much looser than the dogs.

Tuberculosis, it reminds its readers, the medical profession for the larger part has decided, is not a disease of the open air. It is found in close, ill-ventilated and unwholesome places, some of them the abodes of poverty, but many of them the habitation of luxury and indolence. It follows, therefore, argues the Post-Dispatch, that if there is danger to mankind from tubercular dogs, it proceeds not from the curbs of the streets, but from the pampered pets of the household, the apartment and the lap. This seems impertinent as taking issue with so learned a body as the French Academy of Medicine, but none the less pertinent from one viewpoint.

"An investigation to determine how many house-coddled dogs are infected with tuberculosis, might prove not only interesting, but valuable as affording another aid in stamping out the white plague," says the Richmond Virginian, in reference to the report of the French doctors.

Possibly the meaning of the French Academy of Medicine, that dogs are carriers of tuberculosis, is similar to the dissemination of bubonic plague by rats, which are not necessarily afflicted with the plague, although a source of infection.

The worst dog-ridden city of Europe is Constantinople. The canines there are protected by law as public scavengers, and they are as evil smelling and disreputable as the American buzzard. Following up the French theory, it would be of value to learn what effect the dogs of the Turkish capital have on the health of its people and the relative proportion of tuberculosis there, as compared with European cities of similar population.

Gradually Wacoans are accustoming themselves to the little white pillars on street corners, in the Fourth and Fifth street neighborhoods, the which are drinking fountains called "sanitary." Or, rather, there is being a gradual accustoming to drinking on the public street. We intend no personal criticism in remarking that this type of fountain is very new to us as a public fixture and that we think it is not well chosen for the purpose. The bases appear to be wet and liberally coated with dust and dirt, most of the time. The shaft is low and there is but one spout in each fountain. They are not placed in the shade. We are very glad this humane and city-fied practice has been begun in Waco, but we hope it will remain with us in a form that experience of other cities has rendered the approved form. Rather than these small, single spout fountains, we would use a taller, larger fixture of polished granite or other stone, with four or at least three spouts—these placed in the shade and given constant attention as to freedom from dust and dirt. This is the sort of sanitary fountain used in the streets and playgrounds of other cities. They are clean and cool looking. We think they would cost less than the handful already placed, and we think the present sort will soon prove impracticable. In this connection it may be reminded this is a fine charity and not too costly for Waco's men and women of means. We hope the coming summer will find streets and playgrounds well equipped with large sanitary drinking fountains, both at the city's expense and as private benevolences, since the way to public fountains has been opened.

Almost a daily visit to the site of the Hotel Higgins has become an habit with many citizens. This is gratifying manifestation of interest in the present biggest feature of the city's building, and it is also evidence that the community as a whole appreciates the remarkable extent of new building for Waco at this ordinarily dull season. Few have not heard visitors' comments on the generalness of building operations through the business district and the strong advance in commercial enterprise these operations betoken. And most of those who have remarked on the downtown construction have not had opportunity to notice the extent of residence building in every section outside the business district. There is no city in Texas that is witnessing this summer the extension of business property and the number of new business and residence structures comparably with Waco's.

The country press of this region already is taking up with a friendliness that should be deeply appreciated by all Waco, the several features of the 1913 Cotton Palace and the arrangements thus far announced for a greater exposition. Cotton Palace pennants and lithographs are appearing steadily in the shop windows of the larger Texas cities and are prominent in the public places of our neighbor communities. Motor cars and vehicles out of Waco are traveling heralds of the fortnight of rare exhibits and excellent entertainment. There must be stronger railroad advertising this year than ever before for the innumerable events of November 1-16. The Texas Cotton Palace has thrice proved its great worth as an attraction to all the State, and transportation companies will be boosting their own game by fanning this exposition as second to none in the State.

Those headlines and display decorations who are sticking things like this over photo's of Lady Constance Stuart-Richardson in dance draperies: "This is an English Noblewoman!" are requested to call off the (1). There is no proof that an English noblewoman is not constructed in common with the ticket seller at a Kaffir circus.

The Carnegie Foundation has refused to give a hero medal to a five-year-old boy who saved his playmate from drowning, on the ground that he hadn't reached the age of discretion. "Mighty few heroes have!" comes back the Boston Transcript. And mighty few judges of heroism, distant wit.

Is this praise scarlet or merely tinted? Paris Advocate remarks that Hon. Horace Vaughn "is not pleased with the currency bill but he proposes to feed out of the Democratic trough. We are glad," the Advocate ends it, "to see him come clean." The association of "trough" and "come clean" is striking, at least.

"When Emmeline comes marching home," is not being sung in England in honor of the imminent return of the Pankhurst from France, and the welcome will not be hearty and only the mad mill suffs will cheer. The spine of the British bench gets no stronger in dealing with these pests.

Governor Colquitt and Governor Cruce doing a Major-Hodges road stunt in Texas might add to the popularity of each at a time when each needs several new wrinkles in the popularity game.

It is to wish that the government had done business with the coal "trust" at the beginning, instead of at the end, of the summer.

When our controller and his chief clerk fall out—well, we hope the new man on the latter job will like the life.

Brilliant opportunity for the accustomed pun in the statement of counsel that Thaw will be in Canada when the snow flies.

MARTIN H. GLYNN PROFITS BY LUCK

CAREER IN BUSINESS AND POLITICS IS MARKED BY GOOD FORTUNE.

BEGINS LIFE ON A FARM

Through Unusual Circumstances is Sent to Congress—Becomes a Newspaper Proprietor.

Martin H. Glynn, acting governor of the state of New York since the impeachment of Gov. Sulzer, may be called picturesquely lucky. He is a political enigma in a way. His personal following must be guessed at and his permanent political affiliations have been described as problematical. One of the chief sponsors for Mr. Glynn in politics is Patrick E. McCabe, clerk of the state senate. In fact no other man can rightfully claim to be as much responsible for Mr. Glynn being where he is politically as McCabe. McCabe is hand in glove with Leader Murphy of Tammany Hall. Yet the lieutenant governor would not have it thought—and apparently he feels strongly about this—that he stands for the plans and operations of Tammany. And there you are.

Began Life on a Farm.
Mr. Glynn began life poor. That was forty-two years ago on a farm near Kinderhook, N. Y. He attended school according as long hours of toil would permit. His family removed to Valatie. There he met an author, and the acquaintance led to much help for the lad from the man of letters. The young farmer prepared for entrance to Fordham college after serving an assistant bookkeeper in a cotton mill. He was graduated in the class of 1894.

In Albany there was a daily paper of considerable circulation and standing, the Times-Union. It was owned by John Henry Farrell, who had a peculiarly young man who had been affiliated with Catholic institutions of learning, being a very devout communicant of that faith. When his college course was completed young Glynn bore this in mind and repaired to Albany. He had an acquaintance with the college with the sons of Mr. Farrell, Joseph, James C. and John F. Farrell. This acquaintance was a help to him.

Was Political Writer.
Mr. Glynn was taken on the Times-Union as a reporter. The proprietor of the paper used him principally for work at political odds and ends. Mr. Glynn soon began to write editorial squibs along political lines. But it was principally writing of the chamber variety. He did not become known or increase his prestige through his occupation. He was just a part of the Times-Union machinery dominated by John Henry Farrell.

The late George N. Southwick, a great friend of former Speaker Joe Cannon, had represented the Albany district for some time. The late Anthony N. Brady liked Southwick, and although he was a democrat backed Southwick whenever he ran. Southwick did something Mr. Brady did not like in 1897. No one knew exactly what it was, but at any rate the Brady support was withdrawn.

One of John Henry Farrell's sons, James C., had married Mr. Brady's daughter. This was a family link between Mr. Brady and Mr. Farrell, and the political link was not long in being forced after Mr. Brady decided that he would have no more of Southwick. The proprietor of the Times-Union decided to enter the field with a candidate for congress against Southwick, who was backed by William Barnes, Jr., the political enemy of the Farrells. Glynn was selected. He had very little then to say about it. McCabe accepted the nomination, and was not above joking behind the young man's back as to his amateurish unfitness. But the Brady influence turned the trick and Glynn defeated Southwick.

Strikes It Lucky.
While a member of congress Mr. Glynn met Miss Mary C. E. Magrane, daughter of H. B. Magrane, a wealthy manufacturer and merchant of Lynn, Mass., and finally won her for his wife. His field of acquaintance widened. He traveled Bostonward a great deal. Old John Henry Farrell died. The Times-Union property was divided.

OROZCO WOULD AVENGE MURDER OF HIS FATHER

Pascual Orozco, Jr., who recently was advanced to the rank of general of brigade in the Mexican army for service to the Huerta government, is said to have begged permission to return from Northern Mexico, where he has been fighting, and to go to Morelos of Guerrero to avenge the death of his father, Colonel Pascual Orozco, Sr., who is reported to have been shot by the rebel leader, Zapata, when the latter was forced by federal troops to evacuate Huautla, in the State of Guerrero.

half going to the widow. Here is where a noteworthy piece of luck came to Mr. Glynn. Mr. Farrell's widow sold him her half of the paper for a song. Report has it that she had to urge Mr. Glynn to buy, declaring: "Martin ought to have the paper. It was the paper with the largest circulation in the city and netted an income of from $25,000 to $50,000 annually. Mrs. Farrell's action in parting with her holding for a sum nothing like its real value—the price is generally placed at $75,000—is still being commented upon in Albany. It placed Mr. Glynn at once in half ownership of the plant.

The echoes of this generosity were still loud when another piece of luck befell the future lieutenant governor. The other half of the paper, held principally by the son, Joseph Farrell, was practically bestowed upon Mr. Glynn. By many supposed to know, it was declared, and it is still often asserted, that young Farrell presented the share of the Times-Union he possessed to Glynn without getting or asking one cent in exchange. Mr. Farrell was about to enter a Jesuit college, and some of those who knew him well say that he had often asserted he would "rid himself of the newspaper and any similar worldly possession before taking orders."

In 1904 McCabe was flirting with the Independence League leaders. The support of the Times-Union was something of an asset. So McCabe told Glynn he intended to have him nominated for state comptroller. Sure enough it was done, and also, sure enough, no matter what happened to other nominees that year, Glynn was elected. He served three years as state comptroller. He was renominated but was defeated. While comptroller Mr. Glynn announced very often that he was unbosomed and was running his office to suit his ideas of how such an office should be run.

McCabe Proposes Glynn.
Just before it was decided who should be the democratic nominee for governor in the summer of 1912 McCabe had a long talk with Murphy and advised that Glynn be named. Murphy was willing, but he did not think Glynn was as popular a man as Sulzer. In this he was right, for as has been pointed out, Glynn had little personal following and Sulzer had a large one. So it was that the lieutenant governor came within an ace of getting the nomination, and considering the conditions as they existed last year it is probable that he could have been elected quite as handsily as Sulzer was.

Personally the lieutenant governor strikes you as being cautious and calculating. He has little magnetism on the stump. His speeches are of about the usual campaign stock variety. Whatever plan he puts in execution is never sudden. You hear about it after it has been considered in privacy, before there is a chance for persuasion or argument. He has the reputation of living frugally.

Should he be governor in fact until the end of 1914 it will be the first time in his career that he will have been called upon to define his position politically along lines about which there can be no mistaking. Up to now Mr. Glynn has somehow inculcated the belief that he is liable to do things that the Murphy machine will not want to have done and fail to do things that the Murphy machine does want to have done.

The lieutenant governor is a pleasantly appearing man of the mild type. You might suppose him attached to some clerical order and if you can imagine him garbed so he looks the part to a dot. He is soft voiced. You can't picture him angry. He is even tempered, even voiced almost accentless, and without gestulation to emphasize anything he enunciates. He dresses quietly.

Famed for its untailing springs of pure, sparkling water, the island of Tobago lies about ten miles from the city of Panama, in the Pacific. Here the mail steamers plying between Balboa and San Francisco lie by for their supply of fresh water, as do also the steamers that sail southward from Panama.

Highest Mexican
Representative in America Only 26

Ricardo Huerta is twenty-six years old. He is not only a diplomat, but a tried, tested and successful one. He is Mexico's consul general at New York City, and therefore the ranking representative of the Mexican diplomatic and consular services in this country, inasmuch as there is no ambassador at Washington.

Although he was born in Mexico City and bears the same name as the president of Mexico, he is no relation to President Huerta. His family is a very wealthy one from the northern part of the republic, the greater part of their wealth being in lands—which are stable—and in cattle, which have suffered somewhat by the necessities of both the federalists and the rebels in the three recent insurrections in Mexico. By profession he is a lawyer. For some time he served his country in Honduras and other South American countries. Then he was made secretary of the legation at Washington, when Manuel Calero was ambassador.

Huerta could speak no English when he reached Washington, but has always had remarkable proficiency in acquiring languages. About as soon as he became adept in the tongue, Calero resigned as ambassador, thereby contributing materially to Madero's downfall. The young secretary was left in charge of affairs, and so well conducted himself that, on his portmanteau arriving, he was advanced to the most important consular post of Mexico in the United States. He is a bachelor, an admirer of American feminine beauty and decidedly good looking.

Haldane's Speech Was a Declaration of British Policy

Philadelphia, Sept. 3.—The address before the American Bar association of Viscount Haldane, lord high chancellor of England, was an official announcement to the world of the declared policy of the British government, according to an authorized statement made here tonight by Francis Rawle of this city, chairman of the committee which met the lord chancellor upon his arrival at New York from England last week.

The address in a large measure concerned itself with the unity of nations, particularly of those of Anglo-Saxon blood, they working together for the good of the world, its peace and betterment.

According to Mr. Rawle's statement, "It is official and it is intended to be so. It is the declared policy of the British government's announcement through my address to the world. It will be published in London before I get home, and it will be published immediately in French, German, Russian and Chinese."

Sid Edward Grey, the British foreign minister, Mr. Rawle said, went over the address line for line, stamping its every word with his official approval.

Suicides After He Writes to Friends

Asheville, N. C., Sept. 3.—After writing letters to several of his personal friends in this city, Col. Sam Tate, chief of engineers of the Trans-Continental Railroad company and widely known as an engineer, committed suicide at a local hotel here today by hanging himself with a window cord. The body was discovered by an attaché of the hotel.

Colonel Tate was a member of a prominent Memphis family. He had taken an active part in the building of many railroad lines in Central America, Jamaica, Mexico and many of the states of the Middle West.

WOMAN'S NOVEL BUSINESS.

Builds Up Large Trade Making Syrup and Honey.

(From a New York Letter.)
Just a slip of an English girl, feminine and serene in appearance, but one of the most progressive and energetic business women to be found in the city of New York is Miss Eleanor Wood. Without ever having studied chemistry, except in an elementary course at Wellesley, she has charge of a large industry dependent upon chemical knowledge—the making of syrups and honey and of a specially prepared milk food for invalids.

Miss Wood's success is an illustration of how a person with keen business sense can make the by-products of her business valuable. She started with the intention of selling nothing but a certain specially prepared milk food. Her brother, chief chemist in a large sugar refinery, had discovered that a certain combination with milk would prove a tissue building food. His faith in it was so great that he made it his sole article of diet for a long time.

Upon a vacation from the settlement work in which she was engaged, Miss Wood visited him and was initiated into the mysteries of its composition. And here is where she showed the foresight of that practical self which she counted much in her success. While he was the visionary, the experimentalist, she glimpsed the commercial value of his discoveries. Why not market the milk food, at the same time benefiting them and the invalids of her land? She was tired of settlement work. "I wanted a more normal life," she said.

So to the Mecca of the ambitious she came and opened her first laboratory in New York in a small room. After all, many of the businesses in which women are engaged are merely manifestations of some form of their femininity. As Miss Wood peers into the great iron cauldrons to see if the syrup is thickening she is but one step removed from the housewife lifting the lid from the kettle on the kitchen stove. The making of delicious syrups that make medicine palatable and sweeten drinks is but an expression of that same impulse that leads a woman to become a noted housewife or a trained nurse.

"A suffragist tried to make me mill—'but I don't think you have to talk about suffrage if you go ahead and prove yourself able to cope with the business proposition. And that is the best education for suffrage. I read all about the sugar industry, for instance, and naturally that leads me to study and in her cause," said Miss Wood, the tariff."

GETTING READY FOR SCHOOL DAYS

OFFICIALS ARE BUSY WITH DETAILS TO PREPARE FOR OPENING.

INSTRUCTION TO STUDENTS

Supt. Lattimore Outlines What Will Be Done the First Day—Open September 22.

The public schools of Waco will open for the fall term on September 22 at 9 o'clock. In the interim the school officials are busy arranging the plans and completing the summer improvements for the new school year. One new school building is in course of erection and several others are being remodeled. Superintendent Lattimore is working on many details.

There will be no formal opening exercises but all the students are expected to be at their respective schools by 9 o'clock. If the student has been regularly promoted and has his card he will be dismissed for the remainder of the day after having received his room assignment and book list. Pupils having conditions to be removed will confer with their teachers about their texts and arrangements for eliminating the conditions.

Arrangements for the entrance examinations of new students have not yet been completed. Principal Genheimer is out of the city and the announcement will probably not be made until his return. But Superintendent Lattimore says that the new students will be informed within ten days at least of the particulars about the entrance tests.

About thirty-five new teachers have been added to the corps of instructors this year as a result of changes and additional positions. Prof. R. V. Glasgow of Charlottesville, N. C., who was formerly a Waco teacher and who was elected as the principal of the Sanger avenue school this year, has moved here and is arranging the details of his work. Several of the old teachers who have been to Chicago and other northern schools for the summer, have returned.

Improvements in Buildings.
A number of improvements are being made in the buildings of which will not be completed by the opening of school.

The North Waco school will not be completed, perhaps, until some time in October. Definite arrangements for taking care of the pupils have not been decided upon, but the three room frame building near the campus will perhaps be utilized to house some of the students, and other arrangements will be announced later as to taking care of the remainder.

Six rooms are being added to the Sanger avenue school and they will be completed by the opening. This will give ample accommodation for the large growth of the school in the past few years.

The South Eighth street school building is having an addition of four rooms and these will be completed in ample time to receive the students. The two rooms being added to the South Third school are practically ready for occupancy.

Two rooms added to the Seventh street school building have already been completed and accepted. The colored high school, corner Clay and River streets, has had two rooms added and other remodeling that is practically complete.

Steam heating plants are being installed at Columbus street, South Eighth street, South Third street and Sanger avenue. These will not be completed by the opening of school, but will be in operating order before they will be needed.

A number of minor improvements are being made at the high school building. New apparatus is being put in the chemistry and physics laboratories, the coal bins are being remodeled, the smoke nuisance being eliminated and everything being made ready for the students on the 22nd of this month.

MOTHER! IS CHILD'S STOMACH SOUR, SICK?

If Cross, Feverish, Constipated, Give "California Syrup of Figs."

Don't scold your fretful, peevish child. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with sour waste. When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, indigestion, diarrhoea, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs." and in a few hours all the foul waste, the sour bile and fermenting food passes out of the bowels and you have a well and playful child again. Children love this harmless "Fruit Laxative" and mothers can rest easy after giving it, because it never fails to make their little "insides" clean and sweet.

Keep it handy, Mother! A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs." which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Remember there are counterfeits sold here, so surely look and see that yours is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.

CHANGES IN SCHOOL BOOKS TO BE USED FOR THE SESSION

Ninety Per Cent of The Former Texts Are Thrown Out—Children Should Purchase Early—List of The Adopted Books

The Texas school laws have made it necessary for the text book board to change about 90 per cent of the books used by the elementary grades and a number of the high school texts. On all the books that were selected by the state board there is an exchange price allowed whereby the old text may apply in part payment for the new.

In view of the number of changes this year, there will be a great rush for books at the opening of the school and more or less confusion and delay. This has led Superintendent J. C. Lattimore to advise all students, who have cards showing regular promotion, to secure their texts in advance. For those who have conditions to remove, he suggests that they wait until they see their teachers and secure the list of books for their grades. The text supply stores of Waco state that they have received most of the new books and they have assured Superintendent Lattimore that if the children purchase in advance and find that they have chosen the wrong texts, they will be exchanged for the correct ones at full value if they are not soiled.

If the student is not sure or cares to wait until the opening of school the teachers will furnish book lists for the respective grades and give any instructions concerning them that the student desires.

In the list which is given the history is not included. The new books adopted by the Texas school text board for the next six years with the regular and exchange prices are as follows:

LECTURE AT BAYLOR

MISS STOLTZFUS, WITH EXTENSION DEPARTMENT OF TEXAS UNIVERSITY LECTURED.

Emphasized the Features of Lecture With Stereoscopic Illustrations, of Rural School Development.

Miss Amanda Stoltzfus, of the department of extension of the State University, delivered an illustrated lecture on "Rural School Betterment" at the Baylor chapel last night.

The public was invited, but it was intended primarily for the benefit of the teachers attending the institute now in session.

A large number of the teachers and many others were in attendance, and the lecture was well received.

Miss Stoltzfus travels over the state addressing the various teachers assembled, and also delivering lectures before public and high schools.

She is a woman who has traveled over a large part of the world, and is able to explain the larger numbers of her illustrations from personal contact with the subjects.

The illustrations are from all over the world, and are very educative, and, as explained by Miss Stoltzfus, are highly interesting.

Following is her introductory speech preceding the lecture:

"The housekeeper, teacher, farmer—everybody in the state of Texas may avail themselves of the opportunities for self improvement offered by the University of Texas, which institution he, as a taxpayer, helps to support.

The benefits of this great school extend not only for the resident student, but for the remotest at his own home.

"Among the problems directly related to the improvement and prosperity of the community, the state, the nation, are those of the country school and the farm house. Of vital importance in the solution of social, economic and educational problems, then, is the work of the housekeeper, the teacher and the farmer.

"To tell what has been done by people who have worked together to secure such school centers in our state and elsewhere, to help the organization of such school centers all through our rural districts and to conduct them in a manner helpful to both the school and the community—in short, to help relate home and school work for greater usefulness and happiness is one phase of the work of the extension department of the University of Texas."

The illustrative pictures were then thrown on the screen and Miss Stoltzfus explained each one as it was shown and described the feature of education which it was supposed to illustrate. Pictures of the interior and exterior of school buildings, of playgrounds, of students, of farm boys, city boys, school libraries, rural scenes in foreign countries, and lastly famous paintings were shown. All were explained in such a manner as would leave a vivid impression on the audience, and to do much toward idealizing the rural teachers in their work.

ARMY TENT TO HILLSBORO

Recruits Are Sent to Army School, While Officers Book New Field.

Five young men, who had been accepted recently by the army recruiting station in Waco, left yesterday afternoon at 6 o'clock for the government's army training school at Fort Logan, Colorado. This makes thirty-four that Sergeant H. G. Thorne of the station here has sent this year.

The recruits who left yesterday were Laurence Abell of Waco, Logan L. Berry of Uvalde, James E. Meeker of Temple, Lynn R. Jones of Dallas and Ezra O. Lancaster of Wayne, Okla. All five except Abell applied as recruits for the coast artillery, and he applied as a cavalry recruit. The young men enlist for three years' active service "under the flag" and four years in reserve, subject to the call of the commander.

Sergeant R. E. Short, who has been in charge of the regulation army tent at the City Hall, will leave today for Dallas, where he will secure his discharge. The tent will be moved today to Hillsboro for advertising purposes, in creating an interest in the recruiting stations, and showing the excellent equipment of the army. It will be in charge there of Sergeant John McHies.
